“Where a challenge to an arbitrator’s substantive jurisdiction is made, the party that challenges the jurisdiction has a number of options under the Act. It may agree to participate in the argument before the arbitrator of the question of his competence and jurisdiction: see section 30 of the Act. It may do so while reserving its right to challenge the arbitrator’s award as to his own competence (see section 67) . . .

Alternatively, it may seek, without arguing the matter before the arbitrator, to promote the determination of the preliminary point of jurisdiction by the court under section 32. . . .
 The third option of someone disputing an arbitrator's jurisdiction is to stand aloof and question the status of the arbitration by proceedings in court for a declaration, injunction or other appropriate relief under section 72 of the Act. In such a case he is in the same position as a party to arbitral proceedings who challenges an award under section 67 on the ground that there was no substantive jurisdiction."

UNCITRAL Notes on Organizing Arbitral Proceedings (Para 22):

“Various factual and legal factors influence the choice of the place of arbitration, and their relative importance varies from case to case. Among the more prominent factors are: (a) suitability of the law on arbitral procedure of the place of arbitration; (b) whether there is a multilateral or bilateral treaty on enforcement of arbitral awards between the State where the arbitration takes place and the State or States where the award may have to be enforced; (c) convenience of the parties and the arbitrators, including the travel distances; (d) availability and cost of support services needed; and (e) location of the subject-matter in dispute and proximity of evidence.”

Reading marked with (*) is essential reading

(A) Theoretical Foundations of International Commercial Arbitration:

-- Two theoretical models:

Is international commercial arbitration entirely separate from the national legal order: a denationalised creature of contract?

Is international commercial arbitration part of the national sovereign legal order?

An independent and autonomous form of private justice based on the parties' consent, or an exceptional derogation from the jurisdiction of national courts.

-- Redfern & Hunter, Law and Practice of International Commercial Arbitration (2009): Chapter 1 at 1.206 to 1.224 (pp 68-73) (*)

-- Fouchard, Gaillard & Goldman on International Commercial Arbitration (Kluwer, 1999), Ed. By Gaillard and Savage: Chapter I (pp 9-59) especially Section I and Section III

-- Poudret & Besson, Comparative Law of International Arbitration (2nd Ed 2007), Chapter 1, pp 1-37 (*)

-- Lex Facit Arbitrum (FA Mann 1967) re-printed in Arbitration International, Vol. 2 No. 3 (1986) pp 241-260 (*): -

“If, as is almost generally admitted, the arbitrator is bound to observe the ordre public of the lex arbitri, it would be both illogical and unrealistic to suggest that he is entitled to disregard other rules of that legal system's private international law.”

-- Gaillard, The Representations of International Arbitration (Journal of International Dispute Settlement, 2010) (*)

-- The Status of Vacated Awards in France: the Cour de Cassation Decision in Putrabali: Arbitration International, Vol. 24 No. 2 (2008) pp 277-

“An international arbitral award – which is not anchored in any national legal order – is an international judicial decision whose validity must be ascertained with regard to the rules applicable in the country where recognition and enforcement is sought”

(B) The denationalised autonomous approach

-- The cornerstone of modern international commercial arbitration: New York Convention on the Recognition and Enforcement of Foreign Arbitral Awards (1958) (“the New York Convention”) (*)

Is the award an autonomous instrument disconnected from the legal order of the seat of the arbitration and regulated only at the place(s) of enforcement under the New York Convention?

-- Dallah Estate & Tourism Holding Co v Ministry of Religious Affairs, Government of Pakistan [2009] EWCA Civ 755 (*)

Interpreting the limits of the New York Convention and the interplay between the seat of the arbitration and the place of enforcement of the arbitral award

-- Lesotho Highlands Development Authority v Impregilo SPA [2005] UKHL 43

(C) National order approaches

-- The Model proposed by the UN to each Member State

The UNCITRAL Model Law on International Commercial Arbitration (1985) (as amended in 2006) (“the Model Law”)

Specific concepts under the Model Law:

- Separability
- Kompetenz-Kompetenz
- Applicable laws
- The legal seat of the arbitration
- The role of the national courts at the seat of the arbitration
- The role of the national courts at the place of enforcement of the arbitral award
